

Marwen @ Mot

Summer Internships 2009

WHO ARE WE?

Consumer Experience Design (CXD) is responsible for defining the physical and digital experience of Motorola's mobile devices.

WHAT DO WE DO?

Our activities include industrial design, interaction design, screen and information design, design research, color, material and finish specifications, product graphic design, task flow specifications, lighting and visual media design, sound design and animation.

WHAT WILL THE MARWEN INTERNS DO?

The Marwen@Mot summer internship program will provide students with a close-up view of careers in design, meaningful practical experience, and insight into the role of design in Motorola's product development lifecycle.

Applying their creativity as well as visual, verbal and written communication skills, the chosen interns will work closely with Motorola designers to help plan, conceptualize and implement industrial designs, media designs, visual layouts and/or other critical components of the design process.

WHO ARE YOU LOOKING FOR?

Candidates should be initiative-takers who are flexible in their approach and eager to learn. Proven leadership, persistence, creative thinking, and proficiency in design-related software tools are a plus.

HOW DO I APPLY?

Send the following to CXDACR@motorola.com no later than March 10, 2009:

- A completed cover sheet
- An electronic sample of your portfolio/sketchbook (5MB or less)
- A personal statement (in any format you chose) articulating who you are, what your creative interests/strengths are, your career aspirations, and why you want to work at Motorola this summer.
- At least one completed recommendation form (submitted directly by a teacher or administrator at Marwen).
